To our men in the armed services everywhere we send our greetings and love. We pray in a prayer which daily ascends to our Heavenly Father, that you will live righteously, that you will be preserved, that God will hasten the working out of His purposes among the nations, so that peace may come and you be restored to your loved ones, as clean as the day you left them.

Our constant prayer is that He will give us wisdom to help you in your sacrificing service to your country.

We urge you to remember that your righteousness rests between you and your God. Others may exhort, encourage, and support, but you are the victors in the victory for your salvation, aided always by the love, the mercy, the grace of your Heavenly Father, who will be always near you in your time of need, wherever your lot may be cast.

Again we say, God bless you.

As the time again draws near when men of the Christian World are preparing to commemorate that great and glorious day when Christ broke the bonds of death and the Resurrection Day spread its light abroad it is our pleasure to have the opportunity to send our sincerest greetings.

We are associating with your parents and know and feel their great concern for you. We could but look into their hearts we would find burning there their hopes and blessings for you.

We know you are in the bonds of service and fellowship. With our sincere and constantly that the ultimate purposes of your life will find compensation at the hands of a just God.

We know that the spirit of Christ permeate your lives, that you may have the opportunity of overcoming the trials of the present day.

Very sincerely your brethren,

Pr.

It has been a lot of fun for us to prepare this little booklet of pictures for you. We hope that the memories of home and loved ones these pictures may bring to you will be worth while.

We may have missed getting pictures of some of the folks at home, if so, we are sorry. We have labeled our pictures as mothers and wives. Whenever neither was available we asked your father to be in the picture.

Accept our sincere greeting, and know that our fondest wish is for the safe return of all of you in a peaceful world.
God Bless You,

May our Father in heaven hasten the day when peace shall again be upon the earth, and loved ones be united and happy with the return of you who are now waging this war for us. May we prove worthy of the sacrifice
you are making.

As this Easter Season approaches we are reminded that, centuries ago, the risen Lord proclaimed a victory over death. Today, some 2000 years later, your sacrifices promise a victory over another foe, who like death, would deprive us of our right to life and liberty. In this you shall not fail, if the Lord be with you. Seek His aid.

With best wishes for your health and safety

Sincerely,

Easter brings memories of the Master. As He triumphed over evil through His righteousness, may you, through righteousness and a clean life, triumph over temptation and be shielded from evil; and may your service bring to this world a resurrection of finer things, and may you return safely home to enjoy them.
